The Regions of Scotch

Speyside

The most densely populated Whisky region in the world and home to over half of Scotland's distilleries. Whisky from this region is typically light and grassy featuring nutty fruit flavours as well as apple, pear, honey, vanilla and spice notes throughout.

Lowlands

Producing soft and smooth Whiskies with a typically gentle, elegant palate featuring honeysuckle, cream, ginger, toffee, toast and cinnamon.

Highlands

Whiskies from this region feature fruitcake, oak, heather and smoke. The varied seaside and moorland landscapes lend themselves to creating peaty Whisky that maintains floral notes and elegance. Oban from the regions West is a beautiful example of the land and sea profile of this region.

Islands

Citrus and smokey peat on the nose. Be prepared for brine, oil, black pepper, heather and honey.

Islay

Sometimes referred to as 'peated beasts'. These malts are pungent with peat and salinity.
